

Chief People Officer

Birmingham; Attractive salary

If you are Ambitious, Brave and Compassionate there has never been a more exciting time to join our team and lead the people agenda. Birmingham Women's and Children's NHS Foundation Trust (BWC) is proud to be by the sides of thousands of patients and families each year; providing the very best care and support available in the NHS and beyond.

Our new Chief People Officer will play a pivotal role in embedding a leadership culture which allows our workforce to flourish, and to push boundaries in delivering our vision of being a world-leading team, providing world-leading care. Joining an ambitious and highly respected Chief Officer Team, you will work with colleagues internally and across our Integrated Care System to drive a wide portfolio including workforce planning, professional education, organisational development and most critically diversity and inclusion. As an Executive member of the Board our Chief People Officer will also take a corporate role in contributing to wider strategic leadership; acting as the guardian of our values.

We are seeking an authentic leader with strategic experience of leading the People Agenda gained at, or near Board level, in a comparably complex customer-facing organisation. This is an exceptional opportunity to join a values-led Board at the forefront of transforming healthcare services to create a better future for the women, children, young people and families we serve. If you can build credibility quickly; bring a track record of delivering high quality people services; share our values and are excited by our mission, we look forward to hearing from you.

To learn more about us, this important role and how to apply, please contact Emma Pickup, Roz Catlow-Patterson and David Heaton of GatenbySanderson on 0113 205 6296 or visit www.gatenbysanderson.com.

Closing date: 9am, Monday 16 March 2020

Final interviews: Thursday 2 April 2020

